CUTTING KILLED IN PLANE CRASH

George V Gives Prayerful Thanks for Long Reign

THE DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 6. President Roosevelt's left-handed castigation of the house military affairs committee for publishing army officers' plans to seize British islands did not go down so well with committee members. Their reaction was that the President, as commander-in-chief, ought to keep his Army officers from making secret plans for seizing the territory of a friendly neighbor; that if he could not keep them in check, these officers ought to be exposed . . . Fact is, various officers have been sabotaging their commander-in-chief constantly.

During the World Court fight, in which the President had taken a definite stand, several army officers buttonholed senators to vote against that stand. Congressional reaction was that the commander-in-chief should secure better discipline from his officers instead of castigating the military affairs committee . . . Choice of O. Max Gardner, former governor of North Carolina, as investigator of the American Telephone and Telegraph company ensures a thorough probe of that giant organization. As governor of North Carolina, Gardner was the first executive to insist on taxation of the A. T. and T. The investigation will be the biggest in history, having an initial appropriation of $750,000.

LAWYER CLEAN-UP

ATTORNEY GENERAL HOMER CUMMINGS will soon announce plans for a nation-wide clean-up of the legal profession. The tall, pleasant-mannered justice department czar considers bar associations ineffectual in such a job and proposes that the Government undertake the housecleaning . . . Jimmy Riley, a senate doorkeeper, once ran as a Republican candidate for congress in Milwaukee . . . Democratic Floor Leader Robinson will always be a hero to Senator Bennett Clark. Reason is that at the famous 1912 Democratic convention in Baltimore, the Arkansan held his state's delegation in line up to the very last ballot for the late Speaker Champ Clark, Bennett's father. . . . The explanation for Huey Long's projected political tour of California this summer is the fact that there are more Share-the-Wealth clubs in that state than in any except Louisiana, Arkansas and Mississippi . . . Tennessee's massive-chested Senator Nathan Bachman never wears a vest, never uses any tie other than a black bow which he tucks under the wings of his turn-down collar.

NON-PARTISAN BOUNCE

THE Labor Department is planning a secret survey of company unions and is organizing a staff of investigators to collect the data . . . Arizona's one-time cowboy Senator Henry Ashurst recently received the following letter from a constituent who didn't like his attitude on a pork-barrel measure: "Your attitude is very unsatisfactory. You are keeping $6,300,000 annually from Arizona, and are politically dead unless you change your position." . . . The Post Office Department has completed a moving picture of the making of a stamp. It will be made available to schools and clubs . . . An interesting case was argued before the Supreme court this week by Colonel "Bill" Donovan, assistant attorney general in the Coolidge administration. Donovan defended the claim of the family of the late William Humphrey for $3000 in salary from the Government. Humphrey was ousted by Roosevelt as a Federal Trade Commissioner. Donovan contended before the court that if the President's action was upheld it would mean the destruction of the non-partisan character of all the Government's independent commissions. No decision has yet been rendered.

MILLIONS IN EMPIRE PAY TRIBUTE

Cheering Multitudes Jam Rulers' Route To Cathedral

By BURDETTE T. JOHNS
(Associated Press Foreign Staff)
(Copyright, 1935)

LONDON, Monday, May 6.—While millions of loyal subjects throughout the British empire celebrated his silver jubilee mingled carnival and solemnity, King George V. knelt in prayers of thanksgiving today for completion of 25 years on the throne.

Both the King and Queen Mary were plainly thrilled by the nation's fervent outpouring of love and devotion as they entered St. Paul's cathedral to worship.

Cheering Thousands

Outside the ancient edifice, cheering thousands, many of whom had stood all night for the opportunity to pay tribute to their sovereign, jammed the route of the royal procession from Buckingham Palace to St. Paul's.

A single untoward incident marred the triumphal march. Midway a communist banner was unfurled at Ludgate Circus at the moment when King George was being driven past the spot

The temper of the crowd became threatening as the banner was let loose Scores of young men and women, muttering their displeasure at the disrespectful act, seized the banner and ripped it into shreds.

A section of it was rescued

U. S. LINKED TO JUBILEE

(This is the first time in history a news dispatch has bene transmitted by a news association directly from one of its foreign bureaus by automatic telegragh typewriters to newspaper offices in all parts of the United States).

LONDON, Monday, May 6.—7:20 p. m. (2:20 p. m. New York Daylight Saving Time) Direct (AP)—Ambassador Robert Worth Bingham tonight described "a technical achievement of world importance, the linking up by direct cable without relays for the first time in history of the news desk of the Associated Press bureau in London with the vast network of wires throughout the United States.

"I have had the opportunity," said the ambassador, "of witnessing a demonstration of this technical advance, which is one of real magnitude to newspapers, to peoples and to governments to be able to talk back and forth over direct wires to points as far away as Washington, Louisville, Chicago, Denver and San Francisco with instanteous exchanges of news should make for better international knowledge and understanding."

SURPLUS FRUIT PROBLEM IS STUDIED

Group Meets Today To Consider Question

Disposal of surplus fruit not marketed because of California-Arizona marketing agreement prorates will become vital to citrus growers in years of large crops.

How to meet that problem concerned a committee meeting in Santa Ana today under auspices of the State Farm bureau.

The committee has, as yet, no plan of its own and hopes to formulate one by blending the views held within the industry. Today's meeting was the first one in Orange county and packing house managers were to present their opinions.

Future meetings will be held from time to time and citrus men who wish to speak, may do so at those gatherings. They should make their desire known to R. D. Flaherty, Farm bureau secretary, who is secretary to the surplus control group.

Mrs. Olivia Dionne 26 Years Old Today

CALLANDER, Ont., Monday, May 6. (AP)—Mrs. Oliva Dionne, mother of 10 children, five of whom are world renowned, today observed her 26th birthday.

The robust, dark-haired, brown-eyed mother of the quintuplet sisters planned to pass the day quietly at her home, with half of children present.

The other five, Annette, Cecile, Marie, Emilie and Yvonne, remained at the Dr. A. R. Dafoe hospital, not far away, and it was expected that Mrs. Dionne would visit them during the day.

DISCORDANT NOTES IN AD VALOREM TUNE

Close Harmony Missing From Ditty When Orange County Assessor Tries It Out On His Comptometer, He Reports

By ROCH BRADSHAW

The state legislature is reported to be composing a new taxation ditty entitled "Ad Valorem." The first and last verses would sound something like this:

"All you property owners, be ye rich or not,
"Must help the state to sweeten the pot."

In other words the theme of the "melody" is for the state to impose a 30 cent property tax on each $100 of assessed valuation. This would help the state to play more harmonious tunes on its budget.

But County Assessor James Sleeper wanted to know how the new song would sound in Orange county. So he tried it out on his comptometer. The darn thing registered a lot of discords. The sounds indicated that the new tune would be a hit. A big hit. It would hit the taxpayer.

What Would Happen

Sleeper's figure box told him what would happen here if the proposed "Ad Valorem" song were adopted as a state anthem. On the basis of last year's county assessed valuations and rates, property owners paid a county tax of $9.20 on each $1000 of assessed valuation. If the Ad Valorem ditty is made into an official record, the tax on the same property will be $12.37.

Sleeper's comptometer figures it out this way:

It first takes into consideration that the state plan provides for a uniform assessment of 50 per cent of actual values throughout California, so that each county would pay the ad valorem tax on an equal basis. This would mean a 40 per cent boost in Orange county assessed values. In other words property assessed this year at $1000 would be, in effect, assessed at $1400 under the new scheme.

On the basis of last year's values, a county tax rate of 92 cents was required to raise the necessary $1,158,040. The assessed valuation was $141,633,620. Under the state's plan the valuation would jump to $198,287,068. To produce the same amount of tax money that was raised last year, a county tax rate of only 58.41 cents would be needed.

Would Dig Deeper

But on top of this would come the state's Ad Valorem tax of 30 cents, making the total rate 88.41 cents. That rate is nearly as tall as last year's 92 cent rate. And with a valuation 40 per cent greater, the taxpayer would have to dig three notches deeper into his pocket to help sweeten the state's pot. For every $1000 of assessed valuation, he would have to pull out $3.17 more in tax money, Sleeper's comptometer said.

Last year the property owner paid $9.20 in county taxes on each $1,000. Next year he would pay $12.37.

There is one sweet note in the tax music coming from the state capitol. Counties next year will be allowed to tax operative property such as railroads, which heretofore have been taxed by the state. This will help to cut down the increase in the annual levy. So far, however, there has been no basis established for assessing of operative property by counties and it is not possible to determine just how much help this concession will be to Orange county.

Will Not Benefit

This much is certain, Sleeper mused. Those school districts which have little or no operative property will not be able to benefit much from its return to the county's rolls.

However the problem may be finally settled, Sleepers' figures indicate that the acoustics are not very good in Orange county for the proposed new "Ad Valorem" ditty.

SANTA ANA MERCHANTS FAVOR FAIR BUDGET

Santa Ana business men joined other leading interests of Orange county today in an expression of opinion favoring an Orange county exhibit at the San Diego exposition.

Few of those who could be reached by The Journal failed to heartily endorse the plan to use this year's advertising budget for the exposition display.

The question likely will be considered by the board of supervisors at tomorrow's meeting. Indications today were that at least four would favor the idea. Supervisor N. E. West of Laguna, one of those who had been cold to the suggestion of spending money for the display, swung over Saturday to the majority side with the stipulation that the expense must not add to the tax levy.

A cross section of opinion among leading business men indicated Santa Anans do not want to be left out and that as a matter of sound business, the county is obligated to make its appearance at the fair. Necessity of prompt action was stressed because the gates are to open May 29 and it is a matter of no small undertaking to design, gather and install suitable products to make up the display.

Here are what some business leaders think about it:

James Harding, Chandler Furniture Company—"By all means we should have a fair exhibit. It is an excellent opportunity to send tourists back through Orange county and to call their attention to our industries. There should be a sign at San Juan Capistrano directing them back this way. The advertising appropriation could be used in no better way."

Walter Swanberger, Swanberger's Store for Men—"I am for the plan 110 per cent. I always have been."

C. K. Dodds, Bank of America Manager—"Because of the number of people passing through here, both coming and going, we should have an exhibit at the fair."

Mrs. Alice Peterson, Peterson's Shoe Store—Answering "Do you think Orange county should have an exhibit:" "Oh, yes, indeed, I do! The supervisors would be justified in diverting the advertising appropriation for reasons covered in The Journal."

Hugh Lowe, Lowe's Clothing Store—"I am in favor of an Orange county exhibit. It looks like a good business proposition."

J. C. Horton, Horton's Furniture Store—"I am certainly in favor of the plan. The supervisors would

THE FARMER SPEAKS

The farmer himself tells his story in a series of eight daily articles, the first of which appears today on page 1 under the heading, "The American Farmer's Chance in 1935."

In these colorful, factual stories from the agricultural regions, the central figures are men representative of the great farm population about which, as a unit, so many legislative battles have been waged and so much written.

On their dry, dusty acres or in green pastures, Associated Press staff writers have sought them out, heard and seen at first hand their living conditions, their prospects, their philosophy.

This series presents an intimate study of the farmer himself.

RAIL MEN'S ANNUITY ACT DEAD

Unconstitutional, Rules High Court

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 6. (AP)—The entire railroad retirement act, affecting more than a million employes today was held unconstitutional by the supreme court.

The decision was read by Justice Roberts. It upheld a lower court ruling which declared the act invalid.

The court's ruling was directed especially at that section of the act which made it apply to all employ of interstate carriers including employes not directly engaged in interstate commerce.

Justice Roberts, in delivering the opinion, stated the invalid features of the act could not be separated and that it was necessary to declare the whole act invalid.

Not Regulation

He said the law, in addition, was not a regulation of interstate commerce, and was invalid also for that reason.

The opinion also specifically mentioned sections of the law, also had held the act invalid.

In signing the measure last June 30, President Roosevelt said it was "crudely drawn and will require many changes and amendments at the next session of congress."

Action Deferred

Action has been deferred pending a decision by the high court. The legislation would compel both the workers and the employers to contribute to a retirement fund, the latter giving twice as much as the former, unless otherwise specified the employes would contribute 2 per cent of their compensation.

The decision was 5 to 4. Chief Justice Hughes wrote a dissenting opinion in which Justice Brandeis, Stone and Cardoza joined.

The boy recovered within a short time after being saved.

from the mob and stored away for safe keeping until tonight when it will be placed on top of a huge bonfire in Hyde Park to be ignited when the King presses an electric switch in Buckingham palace.

Kneel Humbly

The King, saluting and smiling, shared with the Queen the crowd's attention as they drove through the streets, enacted the ancient ceremony of gaining admittance to the city of London and entered St. Paul's to kneel humbly at the feet of ecclesiastics who lifted their voices in thanksgiving.

His right hand shading his eyes, the monarch bowed his head reverently as prayers echoed through the crowded cathedral beseeching the blessing of Almighty God on the king and the kingdom.

Queen Mary, at the king's left, was a magnificent figure in silver and white. Her shoulders were wrapped in white furs while diamons glistened in her small toque which was topped with a plume.

Like carved sentinels the crimson-coated members of the honorable corps of gentlemen-at-arms stood at attention along the steps leading to the chancel and under the dome and in both transepts.

Tears of Happiness

Many of those in the crowds thought they detected tears of happiness in Queen Mary's eyes as she rode beside her husband between the almost unbroken lines of cheering subjects.

Leaving the cathedral, their majesties took another route back to Buckingham Palace by way of the historic Thames, and again bowed and smiled in answer to the deafening ovations that everywhere greeted them.

'TRAGEDY' BOY ELECTROCUTED FOR MURDER

ROCKVIEW PRISON, BELLEFONTE, Pa., Monday, May 6. (AP) Robert Allen Edwards, playboy of the anthracite fields, walked unassisted to the electric chair and died early today for the slaying of Fred McKechnie, the little church worker who had told him she was about to become a mother.

The lips of the 22-year-old "American Tragedy" slayer moved in prayer as the black cap fell over his head.

Says 23rd Psalm

The Rev. C. F. Laurie, prison chaplain, recited the twenty-third Psalm as Edwards walked in, and the Rev. Thomas Hughes of Wilkesbarre, Edwards' pastor, stood by him praying silently as the boy died.

The trembling of his hands upon the arms of the electric chair was Edwards' only outward sign of emotion.

In his last hours, the former Edwardsville coal miner read from his family Bible. Prison attaches said the Bible given him by Margaret Crain, East Aurura, N. Y., music teacher, the "other girl," was left by Edwards in the Luzerne county pail at Wilkes-Barre. It was Miss Crain's only gift to him, but during his stay in Wilkes-Barre it was said he had not read from it.

It was charged that for love of Miss Crain, whom he met at Mansfield State Teachers' college, Bobby blackjacked Freda to death while they were swimming in Harvey's lake near Wilkes-Barre last summer. Freda had been happily making plans for her marriage after Bobby had promised the ceremony would take place soon.

SUICIDE ATTEMPT

HOOVER RAPS SOCIAL IDEA

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday, May 6. (AP)—Creation of economic and social security through "regimentation" today bore the arraignment of former President Herbert Hoover as not producing a true American citizen.

Mr. Hoover in an address before the California Conference of Social Work here last night, assailed any attempt to make the government the major source of security efforts and made at least one apparent direct criticism of an administration policy, the original plan for production curtailment.

Both he and his remarks were given hearty applause by the some 2000 delegates gathered at their opening session to hear him.

The speech reemphasized the increasing frequency with which the ex-president has recently made public appearances and statements to break down the seclusion and silence he had generally maintained since his retirement from office.

FAMOUS FLIER MAKES TRIP IN 48 HRS.

LOS ANGELES, Monday, May 6. (AP)—A story of how he encountered a terrific storm over Central America and how his motor suddenly went dead was told here today by Frank Hawks, famous speed flier, as he rested after a 7725-mile flight from Buenos Aires, Argentine, to Los Angeles, in flying time of 48 hours and 5 minutes.

Hawks took off from Cristobal yesterday morning, landing at the municipal airport here 17 hours and 50 minutes later.

"We took off from Cristobal, flying blind in fog and clouds," Hawks said.

"Five minutes later we encountered the worst storm of my experience. There was thunder, lightning, rain and jolting winds.

"We soared to 12,000 feet, trying to climb over it, but ice formed on the carburetor and controls.

"There we were, flying blind in a terrible storm, with our motor dead and absolutely no control over the plane. We were buffeted about, gradually losing altitude as the ship glided earthward.

"We dropped about five thousand feet, pulling at everything but absolutely powerless to to control our flight.

"I realized there was nothing but tall palms and crawling things below us. I tell you it was a very unpleasant feeling.

"As we reached a lower altitude, the ice thawed out and the motor popped, gradually coming back to life. From there on, we flew blind, eventually getting out of the storm area."

Hawks said the purpose of his flight was to gather data on air routes between North and South America.

HUNGER FACED BY HUNDREDS IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Monday, May 6. (AP) Illinois officials strove desperately today to end the stalemate over relief funds as hundreds of thousands faced the prospect of going to bed hungry.

Governor Henry Horner expressed confidence that enough opponents to the sales tax increase plan for raising the state's share of the relief burden would be compelled to change sides to carry through the emergency measures tomorrow.

"Unless the bills pass," he said, "the situation will be desperate."

Fifty thousand family heads in Cook county who depended upon work relief received their last checks a week ago today, and relief officials said it means their food supplies were exhausted. This group included 175,000 individuals. Another 4000 families of those on direct relief will be added each day to those without supplies because they last received help a week ago, relief officials said.

In downstate counties it was reported that 143,000 families dependent upon work relief could no longer be given help.

Cook county staved off the crisis one week by voting $1,200,000 for the emergency. Under authority granted in 1932 the county could sell $3,000,000 more in bonds for relief funds.

SEAT JURY FOR WRECK TRIAL

A brand new jury panel reported in Presiding Judge James L. Allen's court today.

The first complete jury selected from the list of 45 men and women was sworn in to try an automobile accident case in the same court. It is a case in which Afolph Navarro, 15, and his father, Rafael Navarro, who live near La Habra, are seeking damages for injuries sustained last December 31 when their car was in a collision with a machine operated bly E. E. Dieckman of La Habra.

The wreck occurred at Ocean avenue and La Mirada road. Young Navarro suffered a fracture of the skull, among other injuries, and asked $20,000. His father sustained an injury to his spine. He asks $5000, plus $75 for repair of his car.

Dieckman has filed a cross complaint in which he asks $10,000 for three broken ribs and other injuries. He also requests $777.20 for medical expenses, loss of work, loss of use and repair of his car.

MORE ABOUT CUTTING

About 120 miles northeast of Kansas City, just 15 miles short of the field at Kirksville fuel gave out and an immediate landing was necessary.

This much was reconstructed from final radio reports and reports of Charles Bledsoe, farmer who lives near the scene of the crash, who said the motors of the big low wing monoplane sputtered out just before it fell.

The Transcontinental Western Air offices in Kansas City said this was the first accident reported anywhere to one of these twin-motored Douglas ships. The line itself had flown them 8,000,000 miles since May 1, 1934.

It was a sister ship of "No. 300," the transport that only last week set a new transcontinental speed record between Los Angeles and New York.

Was Aristocrat

WASHINGTON, Monday, May 6. (AP)—An aristocratic upbringing in the East formed the background for the rise of Bronson Cutting to the position of United States senator from New Mexico.

Identified with the liberal bloc in the senate, Cutting, a republican, supported Franklin D. Roosevelt for president in 1932.

Mr. Roosevelt, however, did not endorse Cutting's re-election last fall. Now the senate elections committee is studying Cutting's victory over Dennis Chavez, democrat, who has contested the election.

FREDDIE'S BACK AGAIN

Smiling Newsy Has New 'Car'

Freddie Carson was back at Fourth and Main streets Saturday night.

He used to be Santa Ana's best known newsboy. Thousands of folks have seen him sitting in his wheel chair dispensing smiles and newspapers. But Freddie hasn't been seen muc lately. He has been in the hospital. Saturday night was the first time he'd been down town after dark since Christmas.

He was the same old Freddie. But there was a difference, too. It was something about the way he smiled. Sitting in his one-man automobile, parked on the sidewalk, he greeted his many friends like a man who has just come home from a long exile. It wasn't just the street lights that made Freddie's face seem brighter.

"Gee, I—it's great! Why, it's just like beginning to live all over again!" That's the way Freddie feels about it. "It's sort of like Christmas! Those old paralyzed legs of mine don't get in my way any more!"

Since he left the hospital three weeks ago, Freddie has been going places and se ing things.

"This little old car of mine took me half way up the El Modena grade in high!" he declared.

Freddie's automobile is built just to suit h needs

You'll see Freddie on the streets daily often from now on. If you stop and talk with him, he'll be your friend. But Freddie won't be in one place very long at a time. He's not confined to a wheel chair any more. Those useless old legs aren't in his way, like they used to be. But somehow, you won't notice that his legs are gone.

The thing you'll remember about Freddie is his smile.

Colorful Corner Tips...

Stand across the street from your home. Look at the front door. Are you proud you live there? A coat of outside Yacht spar varnish on the front door may save the expense of a new door.

A few minutes' time and a small can of paint varnish or enamel will work wonders.

See your home as others see it. It may not be in bad condition but a good look at it from the other fellow's porch may surprise you.

Stop in at the colorful corner for free information on color schemes and correct paint information.

F. A. Jones, manager for J. C. Penney company, accompanied by his family, has returned from a trip to Lovell, Okla., where he visited his father. En route the party encountered dust storms, the first being at Tucson. Near El Paso dust so increased that breathing was difficult. In order to escape this uncomfortable condition, Mr. Jones continued to drive until a higher altitude was reached. This afforded relief from an experience that was a decided innovation.

"There was no kind of weather that we did not encounter," said Mr. Jones. "We had high winds and low ones, rain, dust, and on arrival at Flagstaff ran into an old fashioned midwest snow storm. Notwithstanding the variety of weather variations, the trip was enjoyable."

JOSEPH SCOTT SPEAKS TO KNIGHTS

If every citizen keeps faith with God and his country, America's crisis will be weathered, said Joseph Scott, who has rendered eminent service to church and state, before more than 200 Knights of Columbus, wives and guests at a degree banquet in Legion hall last evening.

Scott—"Father of Colmubianism in California, president of the Los Angeles community chest, nominator of Herbert Hoover in the Republican convention—blamed not government heads nor bankers, but the individual citizen, for America's present state.

Enunciating eternal vigilance as the price of liberty, he called upon all to take an active interest in government, but more important, to devote one's self to his family, the basic unit in any nation.

Sixty-nine new Knights of Columbus were inducted into the local chapter yesterday and took second and major degrees yesterday afternoon. For this largest group in its history, the banquet was held.

Short talks were given by state officers, including State Deputy William Sweigert of San Francisco, State Secretary John A. Schwarm of Los Angeles, State Treasurer Leo Broderick of San Bernardino and past State Deputy Beno Brink.

Bows were taken by guests, among whom were Mayor F. C. Rowland, the city council, City Attorney Lew Blodgett, Father Lehame of Fullerton and Father Butler of St. Anne's parish, Santa Ana.

Grand Knight Charles W. Wolford presented Dr. V. A. Rossiter, who was toastmaster. Legion Auxiliary ladies served the banquet.

Organization Formed For Poppy Day Event

Complete plans for the observance of Poppy day here on Saturday, May 25, were announced by Mrs. Gene Robinson, poppy committee chairma of the Santa Ana unit of the American Legion auxiliary at a regular meeting of the organization. A corps of volunteer workers was named to carry out the distribution of the memorial poppies throughout the city, and leaders appointed to direct the work in the various areas.

"The American Legion auxiliary poppies will be distributed entirely by volunteer workers," said Mrs. Robinson. "The response to our call for volunteers has been very gratifying from both our senior and junior members, and we will be able to give everyone in the city an opportunity to wear a poppy on Poppy day. As the workers will serve entirely without pay or commission, every penny contributed in exchange for the flowers will go for the welfare activities of the Legion and Auxiliary.

PRAYER VIEWED BY MINISTER IN SERMON

"Prayer" was the subject of a sermon by the Rev. C. D. Hicks yesterday morning at the Christian Missionary Alliance church having as its text, Ephesians, 6:18: "Praying always with all prayer and supplication in the Spirit, and watching thereunto with all perseverance and supplication for all saints."

"When we stop to weigh the meaning of these words and note the connection in which they are found, the intelligent child of God is driven to most earnest prayer," the Rev. Mr. Hicks said.

"Why should we pray? First, because we have an enemy in the person of satan, 'Going to and fro throughout the whole earth like a roaring lion, seeking whom he may devour.' The context of our text describes the entire armor which is necessary to defeat him and closes with a prayer as perhaps the most effective weapon.

"Then next we should pray," the minister said, "because that is God's appointed way for obtaining things. God says in James 4:2, 'Ye have not because ye ask not.'

"Too, we should pray," he continued, "because the men, whom God set forth as a pattern for christians, regarded prayer the most important business of their lives. We refer to the Apostles. When the multiplying responsibilities of the early church crowded upon them, they called the multitude of desciples unto them, and said, 'It is not reason that we should leave the Word of God, and serve tables. Wherefore, brethren, look ye out among you seven men of honest report, full of the Holy Ghost and wisdom, whom we may appoint over this business but we will give ourselves continually to prayer and to the ministry of the Word.'

"Another reason why we should pray is because the present ministry of our Lord is that of prayer. Christ's ministry did not close with His death. His atoning work was finished on the cross but after the resurrection He entered upon another ministry plainly set forth in Hebrews 7:25, 'Seeing He liveth to make intercession for them.' That being his present ministry, it would seem we should devote more time to real prayer for ourselves and others."

OLD SOLDIERS SWAP YARNS

Yarns from 1898 were swapped yesterday at the thirty-seventh annual reunion and picnic of Company 1, Seventh regiment, Spanish War Veterans, held in Irvine park.

From D. D. Fields came the anecdote about the time he unwittingly called out the guard of the entire regiment.

Fields, it seems, had been reprimanded by his superior officer for giving such a meek call for his guard. Consequently on the following day when the top man came by, Officer Fields took a deep breath and let loose such a strong command that the entire guard rallied around.

Of the original company of 108 persons, 70 are still living. The 16 members who attended with their families yesterday were Captain S. H. Finley, First Lieut. W. A. Greenleaf, George K. Fox, D. D. Field, G. P. Campbell, B. E. Johnson, L. L. Chandler, C. E. Waffle, C. W. Hannah, E. F. Barton, Oscar Kurty, M. C. Cooper, M. V. Allen, G. M. Field, A. P. Dresser and B. F. Lutz.

Letters were read from L. A. Barrett, from northern California, A. L. Stedman of Selma, William Bowers of Pasadena, and J. A. Austin. B. E. Johnson and G. P. Campbell were in charge.

Clark, the complaint recalled, paid $400 and his obligation was discharged.

MORE MONEY FOR RELIEF

WASHINGTON, Saturday, May 4. (AP)—As President Roosevelt called for a list of projects to be submitted next week for consideration in the work-relief program, authoritative sources said today that officials were studying the advisability of paying wages higher than the $50 a month average previously mentioned.

Rising food prices were said to be behind this move. They have increased 11 per cent in the past six months, according to official statistics.

Officials declined to be quoted by name but acknowledged that a survey of living costs in 59 cities, selected in an attempt to present a cross-section of the nation's municipalities, is now under way. The idea is to check these figures against regional wage scales prepared for the works allotment board. Wages are expected to differ in various sections.

CINCO DE MAYO CELEBRATED AT COUNTY GATHERINGS

Celebrating "Cinco de Mayo", which to Mexicans is equal to the Fourth of July to Americans, hundreds of Mexicans from many parts of the county gathered in Fullerton and Placentia Saturday evening to celebrate winning of the battle which gave Mexico her freedom of May 5, 1862.

The Fullerton celebration was held in the old auditorium of the Fullerton Union high school, with Jesus Ybarra master of ceremonies. Musical numbers, featuring guitars and Hawaiian trio numbers, and dances and speeches by local Mexicans were included in the program, which was in charge of the Comision Honorifica of Fullerton.

Visitors were welcomed by G. Dadilla, chairman of the festival committee. The story of the victory in 1862 was told by C. Camacho nd violin and piano numbers were given by Dolores Bernal and Fernando Barreda.

A poem, "A Juarez," was given by Isabel Rodarte Felipe Hernandez, Sara Olivas, Lucila Hernandez and Carolina Lu[illegible] presented recitations. Marcario Pena sang, accompanied by Dolores Bernal and Fernando Barreda, and a patriotic speech was given by Augustin Quintero.

The reception committee was Francisco Perez, Manuel Rosales, Primitivo Hernandez, Juan Lozano and Luis Vargas.

Fast Racing Car Built By Boys

ANAHEIM, Monday, May 6.—Most people use their back yards for planting gardens, raising goldfish or chickens, but a family of ambitious boys in Anaheim has developed a unique factory in the rear of their home at 415 South Olive street, in which they have produced one of the fastest racing cars in Southern California.

Alex Morales jr., his brother, Gil, and Ray Pixley are "engineers" on the project. They have made a unique record in race car building, using salvaged car parts from wrecking yards for almost all of their fast automobile, and casting and machining other necessary "gadgets" for their machine.

That their home-made machine is rated with the best in this part of the country was shown two weeks ago when Pixley piloted the bright red chariot to fifth place at Legion Ascot speedway in Los Angeles against some of the best known drivers and cars in the country.

In road tests the latest car has been clocked at 135 miles an hour, which the Morales brothers proudly claim is not top speed for their machine. Pixley, only 26 years of age, who was formerly a registered A. A. A. driver in Washington, Oregon and Canada, is the regular driver of the machine. He started driving in the old roadster days, and has stayed with the builders through several bad wrecks, in which several times he narrowly escaped death.

To illustrate the difficulties first encountered in developing their machine, the Morales boys tell of towing the car to races with only wheels on the rear, the front of the car held up by the machine in front. Upon arriving at the track they would remove wheels from the towing car and put them on the racer, switching them back again to take the machine home.

CHANGES MADE IN TUSTIN SCHOOLS.

TUSTIN, Monday, May 6—When the Tustin grammar school board met recently, it was to reorganize in preparation for the business of the coming year as well as to select teachers and fix salaries. J. J. Woodward was elected president, G. R. Seacord, clerk, and W. L. West was installed as a new member.

During the business session it was found necessary to correct a condition inherited from previous administrations. Early in the school year when Tustin's school plant was newly remodeled, it was revealed that the school had seven teaching units too many.

Reduction Imperative

As the school receives only a certain sum of money, based on the average attendance for the year, and inasmuch as the board is only allowed to tax the local district a certain percentage, the board has had to decrease the teaching staff.

With three less on the staff, small changes will be made for the remaining teachers to take care of the classes, and they will receive raises in salary.

Other Changes Planned

Other changes are planned for the coming year. Miss Ellen Smith will be employed full time by the Tustin high school and grammar school. Social studies and visual education will be utilized to a greater extent. Home economics will include not only cooking and sewing, but practical household problems as well as washing and ironing. Home mechanics class for the boys has a new program for greater efficiency to get under way.

Rain and Nine Babies Bring Happiness To Jake and Lena

TUSTIN, Monday, May 6—Ay! The rain brought happiness to many, but to Jake and Lena it was more than generous, with a huge mud hole in their front yard. Lena had basked in the sun days prior to the rain, and then jubilation reigned in the poultry yard, for out popped nine little "quacks". (She didn't know she had broken the Dionne record!) This pair of Mallard ducks and their tiny brood live on the Irvine Ranch and splash in the mud-hole each day unaware of visitors.

"Red Boy," registered dog of James Irvine's, is to be entered in the American Legion dog show on the 18th.

COLUMN LEFT!

By FRANK ROGERS

Things we can do without:

Babe Didrickson's golf achievements. (What chance has mere man if she sets the pace!)

Wrestling tournaments. (A bout now and then is plenty!)

Bleacher umpires.

Six-day bike races.

Post-mortems on 1928 grid games.

Articles on the shocking brevity of what the 1935 bathing beauty will wear "if things keep on," which we see every year and which do nothing but create a lot of false impression about what the bathing beauty (and otherwise) "might" wear. They never quite get as bad as the censors hope they will.

Since our arrival in Santa Ana a few weeks ago, we have reached the conclusion that this thing called baseball is a very funny animal indeed.

In Los Angeles and other cities crack baseball nines go starving for an audience; in Santa Ana there is more baseball interest over this lilliputian form we enjoy so much than there was over all the major league teams who warmed up here this spring.

Other sportscribes and sitters-in-the-sun are offering solutions and suggestions to the Coast league moguls so we might as well join the parade.

Our guess is that baseball can be too easily followed in the sporting pages. Most baseball fans' interest centers in batting averages, team percentages and things that are best told as a matter of record. Many would just as soon sit down at home and read about Gene Lillard having cracked out 14 home runs (it may be 15 or 16 by now) as to go out and watch him hit one or two.

Their passion for the sport is too easily appeased by reading the box scores every morning and by keeping their index finger running across to the percentage column of their favorite team. teams.

Another thing—we're so much help—we would suggest is that they drop this six-day-a-week business and drop down to four games a week. Yes, and if they only played Saturday and Sunday they might do better.

That's hardly practical, you say, but it at least might give them the satisfaction of playing to someone besides the janitor and a few of his friends that he's invited in for the afternoon.

We don't know a thing about this National league and who is likely to wind up as winner. Many people stand willing to whisper in our ear that Joe Rodgers has another ambitious gang at Huntington park . . . others are not so sure.

Just from a few off-hand observations that we've made while watching Bill Cole's Stars in a couple of performances, it seems to us that the Santa Anans should be up among 'em.

Our principal like for the local lads is that they play smart baseball. You don't have to be told that a team with brains can lick a shoddy team that has all the punch in the world—breaks being even.

We're looking forward to:

Covering yatch races at Newport—if we can snag a day off and a ride in somebody's rowboat.

GREAT FUTURE PREDICTED FOR OMAHA

By ALAN GOULD
Associated Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, Monday, May 6. (AP)—The racing future appears unquestionably bright for Omaha—hailed today as a thoroughbred "block off the old chip"—but it remains to be seen whether the big chestnut son of Gallant Fox can duplicate further the championship or money winning exploits of his famous father.

Much the way his daddy did in 1930, Omaha came off the far turn at Churchill Downs to register a smashing victory Saturday in the sixty-first Kentucky derby and prove much the best in a field of 18 three-year-olds.

Ridden by the great Earl Sande, Gallant Fox won the derby from Gallant Knight in 2:07 3-5. Omaha, with 20-year-old Willie Saunders of Bozeman, Mont., in the saddle, withstood the challenge fo the black bomber, Roman Soldier, to win handily by a length and a half in 2:05.

For Gallant Fox, an inferior juvenile, the Kentucky classic was the springboard to a career as three-ye r-old champion, with aggregate earnings of $328,165, a figure that stands fourth in the all-time ranking list.

Omaha will seek the triple crown by running in the Preakness at Pimlico this Saturday and

WILLARD COACH IN GOLF WIN

Sixteen golfers remained in the running for the championship of Willowick's annual spring handicap tournament today, following the past week of matches in which Mel Salveson, Fullerton star, who registered a 79 in the qualifying round to become the seeded favorite, lost to Arnold Lund, Frances Willard junior high school coach, 1 up on the nineteenth hole.

Results and pairings for future matches (all second round play, must be completed by next Sunday night) follow:

INTRODUCING MR. PATTON

Pomona College Trains Clyde

SAINT SWIMMING, NET COACH

It was from Claremont to Chaffey to Pomona to Fontana to his present position for Coach Clyde Patton of the Santa Ana high school physical education department.

"Pat" coaches swimming and tennis at the Saint plant on West Walnut, and mixes with his instruction a daily routine of classes in general physical education work, including the art of tumbling.

Claremont Star

Early acquiring an interest in all sports, Patton began his athletic career in the diminutive prep school of Claremont and received his diploma from the Tri-county league institution in 1921 after participating in two major sports—baseball and basketball. He began as a leftfielder in the national pastime, switched to third base and then to short stop. He was a pitcher his senior year. Three letters were earned as a basketball regular.

The Saint mentor entered junior college at Chaffey in '22, and spent a year under Henry Schott in football, track, basketball, tennis and baseball. Schott, who at present is coaching at Citrus Union high school, lost one of his best all-around athletes when Patton elected to remain out of college the following year.

Marrying during his absence from the campus, Patton returned to Claremont and enrolled at Pomona college, where he became Coach Gene Nixon's defensive fullback and blocking halfback on the Sagehen varsity for two years. He packed the pigskin only twice during his Pomona grid career, but figured prominently while "clearing the path" for his ball-toting teammates.

Coaches at Citrus

As a part of his preparation for coaching, Patton was "farmed" out to Citrus Union his senior year at Pomona, and developed a Class B basketball aggregation that reached the Southern California semi-finals. Later, he secured a position at Fontana junior high—a branch of Chaffey Union—before landing at Santa Ana.

HIGH SCHOOLERS GET SPECTACULAR

When you think of speedy action in baseball, your mind turns generally to the professionals, but this bit of touch-and-go drama took place in a San Francisco high school league game. John Kuhn of Polytechnic is sliding back to first base while George Dunn (standing) of Balboa looks for the ball. See the ball. Balboa won, 3 to 2, in 10 innings. (Associated Press Photo)

ONE UPSET IN PUBLIC NET TOURNEY

Orange county's division of the National Public Parks tennis tournament witnessed but one upset in opening play on the Frances Willard courts in Santa Ana yesterday. Kenneth Ranney contributed one of his surprises by downing Fullerton's Bill Grafton, No. 3 seeded player, in straight sets, 8-6, 6-0.

Fifteen entrants in men's singles and nine teams in men's doubles participated in first matches. Because of short entry lists in women's singles and mixed doubles, these matches were postponed until next Sunday. Toby White, tournament manager, announced today that entries for the mixed doubles will be held open until Friday.

Lewis Wetherell, seeded No. 1, encountered unexpected trouble from Orris Davis, his slim teammate at Santa Ana junior college, in the second round of men's singles. Davis, who advanced past the first round by trimming Carl Aubrey, Saint southpaw, in 6-2 and 6-0 sets, furnished the first opposition for Wetherell, who drew a bye in the opening round. Davis defeated the favored Wetherell, 6-3, before dropping the next two sets, 5-7 and 2-6.

Wetherell went on to the finals by beating Bobby Peacock, 6-4, 6-3. Toby White and Kenneth Ranney are paired in a semi-final match this week, and the winner will face Wetherell for the men's singles title. White eliminated Harold Lewis and Muryl Hallman. Ranney eliminated Jack McManus in addition to surprising the touted Grafton.

White and Ranney gained the finals in men's doubles, as did

J. C. DONS WIN TENNIS MATCH

Lewis Wetherell, Santa Ana's premier tennis player, walked away with first singles, 6-0, 6-0, from Jack Beardslee of the Panthers to aid Coach Calvin Flint's junior college netmen to register a 13-10 victory over Chaffey of Ontario in an Eastern conference match on the Frances Willard courts Saturday.

Orris "Slim" Davis, another top-ranking Santa Anan, outclassed Calvin Bream of Chaffey in straight sets of 6-1, 6-3, in second singles. Dave Styring and Gorton Davis paired in second doubles to trim John Stanberry and Elvis Womack of the visiting squad, 6-4, 3-6 and 6-2.

Ontario picked up its 10 points in third and fourth singles and first doubles. Cliff Guenther of Chaffey ousted Ken Nissley of the Dons after three gruelling sets, 6-4, 4-6 and 6-3, in third singles. Don Currie, who also stars in basketball, defeated Julian Spencer of Santa Ana, 6-2, 6-2, in fourth singles. An Ontario combination of Bert Nichols and John Stanton won from Stowell and Nielson of the Dons in first doubles, 6-3, 6-2.

Flint's Santa Anans also hold triumphs over Riverside and Citrus. They lost their inaugural to Pomona's Red Raiders, 9-14.

COLTON AMERICAN LEAGUERS FACE STARS HERE TONIGHT

Faced with the possibility of having their nice pre-schedule winning streak snapped, and yet hoping for an avengeful victory, the Santa Ana Stars meet the American league's Colton nine at the municipal bowl tonight at 8:15.

Although dumped over by the Colton gang April 22, Coach Bill Cole's nine has come along rapidly since then, taking two wins from San Bernardino and one from the Hollywood Federals just by way of intimating that they will be very much in the National league chase when official activities open here May 14.

The visitors bring two sterling pitchers with them who threaten the prospects of the locals. Venn Botts, No. 1 man on the American league team, proved poison for the Stars when Colton took a 5-1 decision two weeks ago on home territory. Bolstering up the near-invincible work of Botts was an able gentleman named Johnny Kemp.

Cole may use one of three moundsmen against the invaders, although one, Jim Coates, has shown more stuff than any of the others and has indicated in his past two performances that he is ready and willing to stop the Colton batters. Gilbert Yorba and George Stevens are also ready to stalk the mound.

Cole has declared that his gang will play one, and perhaps two more practice sessions before the loop opens. The Riverside Rubes play here May 10, while Cole is holding open Wednesday night as a possible "date" with some of the neighborhood gangs.

BEAVERS TRIP OAKS TWICE

(By the Associated Press)

It's a fact. It happened. Thousands of people actually saw it. The lowly Portland Beavers up and floored the league-leading Oakland Acorns—not once, but twice in a row.

In yesterday's morning game they did it by a score of 10-8. Some folks thought it might have been an accident, but the Beavers repeated in the afternoon, by virtue of a devastatating six-run rally in the eighth, after a tight, hard-fought contest. The score was 7 to 1.

The Cellar Missions, fresh from a victory over Los Angeles, Saturday, dropped both ends of a double-header to the Southerners, 5-2, and 2-1. Mike Meola did almost as well in the afternoon holding the Missions to six hits. An error by Oscar Eckhardt, Mission outfielder, who threw too late to third to hold Meola when he might have stopped Statz at second, cost the side two runs and almost the game.

San Francisco took both games from Hollywood. They downed the Stars, 12 to 7, in the morning, despite five errors. Smead Jolley, Star outfielder, got a homer and a three-bagger in the afternoon, and Ted Norbert, Seal outfielder, hit for the circuit in both games. The score of the final game was 10 to 4.

Seattle split with Sacramento, losing the opener, 5-1, and taking the afternoon contest 9-5.

DOLP TAKES TITLE

SAN FRANCISCO, Monday, May 6. (AP)—Frank Dolp, former Portland, Ore., star who once won the western amateur championship, today was the northern California amateur golf champion as a result of his defeat of James Milinari, San Francisco policeman, one-up in a 36-hole final yesterday at the San Francisco Golf club.

WAIT FOR U. S. TEAM

MEXICO, D. F., Monday, May 6. (AP)—Mexico's Davis cup team, victorious over Cuba in a clean sweep, retired to the sidelines today to await the outcome of this week's series of cup matches between the United States and China.

AMBERS SEEKS TITLE AT 21

NEW YORK, Monday, May 6. (AP)—Twenty-one years old and a professional for only three years, Lou Ambers aims at the world lightweight championship this week.

The Herkimer, N. Y., youngster meets Tony Canzoneri, New York's gallant "old" warrior, in a 15-round match in Madison Square Garden Friday with the vacant 135-pound throne at stake.

Should he get past Canzoneri, Ambers would hold the title only in the eyes of the New York State Athletic commission and those other state commissions which elect to string along with the local solons.

The Illinois commission has announced it will not recognize the winner as legitimate successor to Barney Ross, resigned.

Early betting odds have established Ambers and 8 to 5 favorite over Canzoneri, who at 29 has been fighting for ten years.

Experts believe he can whip Ambers only by landing a knockout punch in an early round. Otherwise they figure the tireless punching of the youngster will bring victory to Ambers on points.

Ambers has been beaten only once since he turned professional. Steve Halaiko of Auburn, N. Y., turned the trick last year, but Ambers reversed the decision later. He has met only two front-rank lightweights—Harry Dublinsky of Chicago and Sammy Fuller of Boston—and has beaten both.

LUCIAN WILSON SETS UP NEW HURDLE STANDARD AS CUBS ANNEX MEET

Captain Lucian Wilson, Southern California's finest junior college hurdler, and the proud possession of Santa Ana's Dons, became the official record-holder of the 220-yard low hurdles today as the result of his spectacular 23.9 seconds victory in the Southland association track and field finals won by Los Angeles at Hoover high, Glendale, Saturday.

The rangy sophomore, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Wilson, 1322 South Birch street, Santa Ana, undoubtedly will head the annual roll of honor prepared by A. G. Spaulding and Bros. from times of junior college athletes throughout the United States. His record replaced the Southland mark of 24 flat shared by Pl to Smart of Compton and Bill Brown of Fullerton, and both Smart and Brown were prominently listed in the Spaulding guide.

Wilson's mark, established against crack hurdlers from Los Angeles and Compton of the Western conference, was only nine-tenths of a second short of the recognized world's collegiate record of 23 flat of wnich Norman Paul of U. S. C. is co-holder. The Santa Ana boy was the only Eastern conference competitor to place in the record-breaking race. The competition was so keen that Kenneth Vandruff—Wilson's able teammate—and dusky Tom Berkley of Fullerton finished sixth and seventh, respectively.

The sterling Wilson also copped the 120-yard high hurdles from Pasadena's touted Francis Sinnette in 15 flat. He will run this race at the Fresno relays Saturday, and hopes to repeat the 14.9 performance which he made unofficially at the Long Beach relays in March.

As predicted, Coach Harry Campbell's Los Angeles Cubs walked off with 1935 honors with

S. D. HILLERS NEW CINDER CHAMPS

Captain Bill Hawkins Sets Coast Prep League Hurdle Record

Skimming over the high hurdles in 15.3 seconds—an outstanding effort for a prep athlete—Captain "Big Bill" Hawkins of Santa Ana high school erased the names of Alvin Reboin and Bert Ritchey from the Coast Preparatory league record books in the twelfth annual running of the track and field championships at Glendale Poly Saturday

Hawkins' time was one-tenth of a second better than the old standard held jointly by Reboin, former Santa Anan, and Ritchey, ex-San Diego flash.

San Diego, pre-meet favorite, carried off the lion's share of honors. Coach Glenn Broderick's Hillers picked up 52 1-3 points to win from Glendale's Dynamiters, dual meet champions who proved a strong second with 46 1-3. Pasadena was not far behind with 43. Long Beach earned 27 2-3. Santa Ana, tabbed to finish at least third, was fifth with 20 points. Alhambra trailed with 4½.

Hawkins was not content with setting a new mark in the high barriers. He also won the 220 lows in 25.3. Bob Reif, long-striding teammate who placed second to Hawkins in the highs, finished third to Glendale's Albright in the low sticks.

Gillis Surprises

Cameron Gillis, Santa Ana's Class B star, supplied one of the features of the six-team gathering by going out 21 feet, 9 1.4 inches in the broad jump. His effort was exactly six inches better than that of San Diegos' Clark who won the Class A competition.

Fred Titensor, 185-pound quarter-miler, was clocked in 53 seconds flat by Coach Reece "Pinky" Greene, but Backman of Pasadena, McCowan of Long Beach and Mosk of San Diego preceded him to the tape in a 52-second 440.

RAITT BETTERS SHOT RECORD

FULLERTON, Monday, May 6. Four new records were set in the Foothill league track and field finals in which Coach Harold Lang's Fullerton high school Indians annexed third at Pasadena Saturday. Muir-Tech, the host, won the 1935 extravaganza with 48 points after being extended by Herbert Hoover of Glendale with 46. Fullerton scored 15 points.

John Raitt, giant football star, pushed the 12-pound shot 53 feet, 10½ inches for a new record. Ted Russell, Fullerton's only entrant in Class C ranks, won the 8-pound shot with a toss of 42 feet, 2 inches.

Fullerton's crack relay team of Talcott, Chamberlain, Christensen and Miller finished second to the Muir-Tech quartet which established a new record in 1 minute, 28.8 seconds.

Miller Wins 440

Erwin Miller of the Braves flashed to a 50.9 victory in the quarter-mile. Teammate DeJong was third in a 2:02 half-mile.

Whittier won the Class B competition with 32 points. Herbert Hoover was second with 31, Fullerton third with 30. Chambers of the Orange county team leaped 21 feet, 6 inches for a new record in the broad jump. McDonald won the pole vault at 11 feet. The Fullerton Class B relay team lost by a hair when Cromwell, anchor man, suddenly tied up a few yards from the tape.

LYONS VS. LA RANCE

HOLLYWOOD, Monday May 6. (AP)—Red Lyons and "Speedy" La Rance meet tonight at the American Legion Stadium in a welterweight wrestling elimination tournament.

BASEBALL FRAY SET BY COOK

Fully recovered from a painful injury received when struck by a ball in practice last week, Coach Clyde Cook returned to his classes at Santa Ana high school today, and conducted drill in preparation for an attractive inter-squad game at Poly field here tomorrow at 3 p. m.

Cook plans to divide his Saint regulars and reserves into two well-balanced clubs, and hold games tomorrow and Friday. Jim Wilkins will pitch for one team, Lewis Olivas, for the other, he said.

Reveal Lineups

Tentative nines, being arranged today, listed the following players:

Team No. 1—Duane Teel, c; Wilkins, p; Jack McClure, 1b; Harvey Hemphill, 2b; Bob Wilde, ss; Joe Castro, 3b; Joe Kadowaki, lf; Minoru Nitta, cf, and Art Nieblas, rf.

MERCHANT NINE LOSES, 8-7

FULLERTON, Monday, May 6. Ward Sheldon, shortstop, slammed out four hits in five trips to the plate or the Merchants yesterday while Fullerton's Sunday baseball club dropped a hectic 8-7 decision to the Cuccio winery nine.

Clifford Perry and Errol Stoner hurled for Fullerton, Stoner showing up well in a relief role after Perry had been touched for 12 fbingles. The Merchants put on a three-run rally in the ninth. Catcher "Bus" Callan poled a homer for the losers, and S. Ferrante, second baseman, did likewise for the visitors.

OPENING OF BOWERS MEMORIAL MUSEUM WITHIN YEAR SEEN

COUNCILMEN IN FAVOR OF PROJECT

Early Action Held Likely; Bowl Gets Study

That Santa Ana's Memorial museum may be thrown open to the public within the coming year, on a basis whereby historical exhibits can be displayed and cared for, appeared a a definite possibility today. Friends of the project are hopeful that the attractive building may soon start serving the purpose for which it was built.

Members of the city council are sympathetic toward the museum opening and also toward development of the bowl, if the money can be found and the cost is not unreasonable, they said today.

Mayor Fred Rowland said he is confident an attempt will be made in drawing up t next annual budget to make provision for opening the museum. Rowland was particularly optimistic, he said, in view of the probability that public utility and operative property taxes will be returned to counties this year.

Councilman Joseph P. Smith said, "I want to do everything I can to further e interests of the city. Because it takes a little money, that is no reason why we should stand back and allow valuable property to stand idle."

Smith expressed desire to study the situation in respect to both the museum and the bowl, wit a view to determining the possibility of future development.

Counciman William Penn said he felt optimistic over the possibility of something definite being done out the museum and that he was sure the board of directors of the museum would be given a sympathetic reception if they brought the matter before the council in time for the next budget.

"It is something that must come up," said Councilman Ernest H. Layton. "I'm strong for development of the museum and the bowl if a suitable proposition can be worked out."

Councilman Plummer Bruns is in harmony with the other councilmen in regard to the project and said he favors civic developments such as the museum and bowl if they can be worked out at no unreasonable expense.

FINAL TRIBUTE PLANNED FOR BOY STAR

HOLLYWOOD, Monday, May 6. (AP)—The film colony tomorrow will pay its last respects to Trent Junior Durkin, who brought the role of Huckleberry Finn to the talking screen.

Funeral services for the 19-year-old actor, killed in an automobile accident near San Diego that took the lives of three other persons, will be held in the afternoon at the Wee Kirk o' the Heather in Glendale. The services will be under Catholic auspices.

Jackie Coogan Hurt

Absent for the last rites for young Durkin will be his closest friend, Jackie Coogan, who was the Tom Sawyer of Mark Twain's story in its latest screen version. Young Coogan was painfully injured in the accident which took Durkin's life, and will be confined to a hospital when the services are held.

John Coogan sr., Robert Horner, 25, radio-actor-playwright, and Charles Jones, 24, foreman of the Coogan ranch in the mountains east of San Diego, were killed in the accident which brought death to Durkin and injury to Jackie.

An inquest into the deaths of all four persons will be held as soon as Jackie is able to leave the hospital, the coroner of San Diego county announced.

Forced From Highway

Jackie, in relating the story of the fatal accident, charged the car in which he was riding, driven by his father, was forced from the highway by an automobile which suddenly loomed in front of it and traveling on the wrong side of the road.

This, however, was denied by Guy Holmes, Hipass rancher. He said the Coogan car was traveling at high speed and hugging the center line when it approached his car. Holmes also denied he had failed to stop and render aid to the victims when the Coogan car plunged from the road and overturned.

Funeral arrangements for the other victims have not yet been made.

STUDENT PAPER WINS CONTEST FOR FEATURE

In a contest with junior colleges throughout Southern California, El Don, Santa Ana Jaysee weekly, for the second consecutive year took first feature prize at the annual Southern California press convention for junior colleges, held Saturday at Padua Hills. The winning entry was written by Walter Bandick about Barbara Child, parachute jumper, and appeared in the March 8 issue of the paper. Last year's winning feature was written by Bob Campbell.

Attending the conclave from here were Jane Crawford, editor-in-chief; Bandick, assistant editor; Marvin Spicer, sports editor, and John H. McCoy, adviser.

Chaffee junior college, host of the convention, won first place in Class A, and Pasadena jaysee took Class B honors. The feature award was not a class honor but given in competition with all size schools.

STATE HISTORY GROUP MEETS THIS WEEK

The probability that an Orange county branch of the California State Historical association, operated under the California state board of education, would be organized was indicated today when a call for a meeting of representatives of organizations interested in California history was issuel by Terry E. Stephenson of Santa Ana, president of the Orange County Historical society.

The meeting will be held at Bowers museum at 4:15 Friday afternoon, May 10, the hour having been set in order to meet the convenience of Dr. Owen C. Coy, of U. S. C., who will be in Santa Ana Friday afternoon to deliver his address on "California Under Six Flags," at the Junior College fiesta.

Dr. Coy is director of the California State Historical association, branches of which have been organized in San Diego county and in a number of other counties of the state. Albert V. Mayrhofer of San Diego is the president of the association, and it is expected that he will attend he meeting here.

Stephenson stated that he had sent notices to a number of organizations that have been actively interested in the state's history, and that any organization that is interested, whether it received a notice or not, is urged to have representation at the meeting.

BREAK GROUND FOR NEW P. O. AT BEACH

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Monday, May 6.—The ground breaking ceremony for the new $45,000 post office to be built here with federal funds was witnessed this morning by hundreds of the townspeople who have been anxiously awaiting work to start on the project.

The first spade full of earth was taken out of the ground by Mayor Tom Talbert while the flag was being raised to mark the sight of the new building. The flag-raising ceremony was under the supervision of the boy scouts and was accompanied by a bugle call by Woodrow Honald and a salute given by Francis Cortner. The Rev. John Engle of the First Methodist church gave the convocation.

45 points. Compton's Tartars flashed unexpected strength in the dashes to win second with 42 1-3. Santa Ana conceded a fair chance for the second spot if everything ran true to form in the dashes, finished fifth with 20 5-6 points. Pasadena was third with 27½ and Glendale fourth with 24½. Other teams scored in following order: Riverside, 16; San Bernardino, 15½; Long Beach, 9½; Pomona, 8; Fullerton, 6 1-3; Chaffey, 5; Ventura, 3½. Citrus of the Eastern and Santa Monica of the Western division went unplaced.

Rudy Holman, handicapped by an injured foot, made a gallant effort to win the two-mile, but faded in the back-stretch while Bill Smith of San Bernardino went on to win in the exceptional time of 9 min. 56 secs. Holman was 10 yards behind; and Eloriga of Los Angeles, who won the Western division finals in 9:57.9 was about 50 yards in back of the Santa Ana star.

Santa Ana's crack relay quartet of Major Anderson, Raymond Craft, Frank Boyd and Vernon Koepsel hung up a new unofficial record for the Dons in 3:24. Koepsels' failure to place in the century was a surprise, inasmuch as the time was only 10.1. He also could garner no better than a tie for fifth in the furlong. But he reeled off a brilliant 49 on the anchor lap of the relay team. . . . Joe Frias, Santa Ana's Mexican miler, ran a 4:37 race but finished fifth in the mile. . . . Kenny Vandruff of the Dons tied for fourth in the high jump, and tied for fourth in the low hurdles. . . . Jack Chewning clicked off a 1:58 half-mile but placed only fifth for Fullerton. . . . Pasadena's John Callier, negro star, won both sprints. . . . Justin McCarthy, Compton vaulter, set a new record of 13 ft. 8 3-8 in. . . . Parks of Compton hurled the discus 140 ft. 9 5-8 in. . . . Kelimoff of Pomona won the javelin at 176 ft. 6¾ in. . . . Jim McDonald of Glendale established a new record of 48.9 secs. in the 440, and Len Spencer of Los Angeels annexed the half-mile in 1:56. Rex Heap of San Bernardino surprised in the broad jump with a winning leap of 22 ft. 9½ in.

GIRL PARACHUTE JUMPER FROM J. C. TELLS ADVENTURE

By WALT BANDICK

How would you like to be out on the wing of a speeding airplane, unable to get back in the cockpit and unable to jump off?

This was the predicament that Barbara Charles, local jaysee parachute jumper, found herself in Sunday. In getting out of a small cockpit onto the wing to make her usual jump, Miss Charles twisted her chuts so that she was unable to reach the rip cord. For this reason she was unable to jump and it was impossible to climb back into the tiny cockpit.

The result was that Barbara grimly hung to the wing for 45 long minutes till the plane was able to land.

First Time to Land

Although she has been up at least a dozen times, this is the first time that Miss Charles ever landed in an airplane. Each time previous she had leaped from the plane with a parachute and made rather independent landings. This was also the case the first time that she ever was up in a plane!

"I got a bigger thrill out of my first jump than out of anything else that I ever did," the jumper stated.

Another exciting adventure she had is the time she was forced to use an emergency chute because the regular silk-packet refused to open. She states that ever since she has used her own outfit.

164 Miles an Hour

"When you first step over the side you spin rapidly end over end. As you gain speed these revolutions become slower and slower until you reach about 164 miles per hour. When the revolutions have ceased you fall as straight and as fast as a bullet.

"Let me tell you when you get going as fast as any falling object can go, you know you're going places! When the chute opens and you are falling at this terrific rate, it gives you a jerk that rivals any chiropractic treatment you could hope to get," Miss Charles explained.

The highest pump that the local student ever made was from an altitude of approximately two miles. She compared the jolt that one receives in landing as equal to that experienced in jumping from a tree. If there are many air-pockets the descent is much swifter and the lading much harder.

Falling Sensation

"The sensation that impresses me most is not that of falling, but the uncanny stillness which one experiences while floating towards the earth way up in the sky. As you get lower and lower the sounds of the hustle and bustle of the earth below gradually become louder and louder. It is like approaching a beehive of activity from a great distance," Miss Charles said.

Besides making exhibition jumps Barbara also teaches students the gentle art of falling to the earth with a parachute.

THE AMERICAN FARMER IN 1935

WHEAT GROWER SAYS FUTURE BRIGHTER

Minnesota Man Is "Sold" On Controlled Crop Production

This is the first in a series of eight articles in which farmers from all sections of the country tell what they think of the past, present and future of American farming.

By JACK MACKAY

CROOKSTON, Minn., Monday, May 6. (AP)—In the heart of the "bread basket of the nation"—the Red River valley of the north—a Minnesota tiller of the soil, fired with a spirit of optimism over the 1935 wheat crop prospects, proceeds merrily with his spring planting operations.

Michael Wentzel, his 44 years belied by his powerful physique and unlined face, was thankful his 400-acre farm, seven miles west of Crookston, was spared by the drought and dust storms that ravaged the wheat-growing sector of the southwest.

Things Look Better

"It's beginning to look like the good old boom days again," observes the valley farmer. "The outlook for a bumper wheat crop is as bright this year as I ever remember.

"Things look a lot better than in 1932, when I had to sell wheat, in the fall of the year, for as low as 29 cents a bushel. It was then, for the first time, that I regretted not having gone into some other vocation."

Subsequently, along came the New Deal and the agricultural adjustment act. Wentzel says he became thoroughly "sold" on controlled crop-production.

"It's the only way of keeping down a lot of these fellows who want to go into crop-raising on too large a scale," he explains. "I'm still under the AAA restrictions, you know, but the 10 per cent reduction this year, instead of 15 last, has given me an allowance of an additional 14 acres."

Michael Wentzel, a Minnesota wheat farmer, admits that some past years have been bad, but already he is listing the present as one of his best. He is seen plowing a portion of the 114 acres he has set in wheat.

One of First Signers

Wentzel says he does not intend to make use of the recent ruling which allows him to plant up to 165 per cent of his base acreage, subject to the stipulations laid down by Secretary Wallace, but instead will abide by his original contract.

His farm is the original homestead staked out by his father in 1875. At the time of the elder Wentzel's death in 1909 the farm had grown to 1500 acres. But there were five sons in the family, and six daughters. The sons divided the farm into equal portions, arranging to compensate their sisters. Michael, as the youngest son, was given the original homestead.

The last seven years have been a period of cyolical change for Wentzel. He experienced in 1928 one of the most prosperous years he has known since he took to farming.

"I spent $6000 that year solely in renovating the interior of the home my father built in 1887—twelve years after he came into the Red River valley from southern Wisconsin to take up a homestead.

"But four years later—1932—that was one of the worst years I've known. I sold some of my wheat at the lowest level I can recall—29 cents a bushel."

But that's all over now, Wentzel thinks. Looking to the future he finds solace in the results obtained in 1934.

"Last year was as good as the best year I've ever had," he recalls. "And I think this year will be just as good, or even better."

Myriad pastels of spring were reflected in the flowers and formals of the "gown" portion of the club's membership.

Entertain Guests

Most of the 100 couples belonging to Tux and gown availed themselves of the privilege of taking guest couples to the dance. Louise Shirey's orchestra provided music for the evening.

Give Parties

Both young people are former Santa Ana students, and although they have been friends since childhood, the romance did not begin until they renewed their acquaintance within the last year in Hollywood.

Miss Pope is a graduate of Julia Lathrop junior high school and of Santa Ana high school, where she studied art with the late Miss Floy Donaldson. ## SPRING AND THE REDINGOTE RETURNS

SUITS and ensemble costumes are right up in front as leaders of the spring parade. Many jacket types are presented this season, for American women, ranging from short hip-length models to finger-tip and longer lengths.

Then there are coat-dress ensembles that are especialy smart and add considerable variety to a new wardrobe, whether one has decided on a suit for spring or not.

The coat-dress ensemble sketched above follows very definitely redingote styling, a type that never fails to return each season in pleasing new versions.

This model uses brown sheer woolen for the full length coat. The sleeves are very wide and caught up into a three-quarter length, which exposes the long sleeves of the printed dress beneath. It has a Peter Pan collar, the two patch pockets are gathered, the leather belted waistline is bloused at back and the coat fastens with self-covered buttons.

The accompanying dress of brown and green print has self-covered buttons down the bodice, a self-collar and bow neckline that is worn over the coat collar to form a double effect. The waistline of the dress is also belted in brown leather.

Navel Shipments to Reach 40,000 Cars

California will sell close to 40,000 cars of navels this season, with shipments practically completed next week, Paul S. Armstrong, general manager, California Fruit Growers exchange, told members of the Irwindale Citrus association assembled at Irwindale here today to celebrate the opening of their new precooling and storage plant. Sales last year were 22,800 and the past five-year average was 27,600 cars, he said.

"Exchange navel sales to date are over 6000 cars ahead of either of the past two years and at a higher f. o. b. average," Armstrong said. "The market has been fully supplied at all times and you can imagine the situation had not Florida lost 30,000 cars of oranges and grapefruit in the December freeze.

"As it is, Florida still reports 4700 cars to go and will ship around 54,000 cars or practically equal to their previous crop."

Two Believed Dead In Ocean Off San Pedro Following Accident

SAN PEDRO, Calif., Monday, May 6. (AP)—The Coast guard today gave up hope that Leland A. Morgan, 25, and J. R. Walker, 26, might be alive. The men were of a party of three who were toppled into the sea Saturday when their 16-foot sailing boat capsized in a blow nine miles out of San Pedro.

William Jones, 24, swam to a pleasure barge after being in the water five hours. No vessel today had reported picking up the two men.

Sightseeing For Natives Sketched

Santa Anans who live so close to the citrus industry that they have never examined it first hand might have followed Farm Adiver Harold Wahlberg today.

As host to a University of California at Los Angeles class in subtropical horticulture, he toured places of paramount interest. The route was:

Ed Hart ranch, La Habra, citron and terrace planting; Bastanchury ranch, Fullerton, side-hill farming; Placentia Fruit company, original valencia planting; Anaheim Cooperative association, packing operations.

SENIOR ANNOUNCEMENTS

Today is the last day seniors can order announcements from the Santa Ana bookstore, according to an announcement issued recently by the committee in charge.

REV. C. M. AKER SPEAKS FROM LUKE 24:32

With Luke 24.32 as his text, the Rev. Cecil M. Aker of the Spurgeon Memorial Methodist church, South, based his sermon yesterday morning on this quotation; "Did not our hearts burn within us, while He talked with us by the way, and while He opened to us the Scripture?"

He spoke in part as follows:

As we walk with Jesus from Easter to Pentecost during these Sunday morning studies together, we come this morning to one of the simplest and most charming of all the post-resurrection appearances that have been recorded for us. It is Dr. Luke's account of the appearance of Jesus to two of his disciples, as they walk and talked along the way from Jerusalem to their little home town, some seven or eight miles out on the Joppa road.

"Though Dr. Luke was quite a literary genius, yet he would have been a superman to have invented such a story as this, unless it had its basis in fact. There is here the blending of the natural and the super-natural in such a natural way as to make us feel, as did Cowper's friend, who once confessed to him that though he did not belong to any church, yet he could not read this story without being deeply affected by it feeling that if the stamp of divinity was impressed on anything in the Scriptures, it was upon this talk of Jesus with his two disciples on the road to Emmaus.

"Shakespeare's ghost scene in Hamlet is considered one of the greatest literary productions. But it is a laborious invention as compared with the charming simplicity of the blending of the natural and the super-natural in this account of Dr. Luke, the Rev. Aker, continued.

"Let us first briefly note the account of the effect of this talk with the Master along the way. They said in reflecting over what had happened, 'Did not our hearts burn within us?' Is not this the great need of the church today? We do not plead for an uncontrolled emotionalism, which is not based on the solid foundation of fact. That would be to enter a plea for fanaticism which is always a peril.

"But in our humble judgment the chief peril these days is the lack of intensely believing on the part of Christian people the accepted facts of our Christian faith."

Citing Coleridge, the Rev. Aker, said, "religious truths of all others the most awful and mysterious, yet being at the same time of universal interest, are too often considered so true, that they lose all the life and the efficiency of truth and lie bed-ridden in the dormitory of the soul, side by side with the most despised and exploded errors,".

"It is to cold, logically stated truth that gets results," the Rev. Aker averred. "It is only when cold logical truth gets thawed out in the warm-hearted living conviction of personality that things really get done.

"Savonarola's arguments were brought together in a solid chain of logic, but as has been said, 'his flaming heart made the chain of logic to become chain lightning.'

"Of course the secret of a burning heart is a burning conviction that the deepest need of this old world at this present hour is a spiritual need. And that it must come along the line as set forth in the writings of Moses and the prophets and made vocal and vital in Jesus Christ who is alive evermore, and who still operates through the Holy Spirit in the world today."

Christian Science Lesson-Sermon Studied

"Everlasting Punishment" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon on Sunday in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, branches of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. The Golden Text was from the Proverbs: "By mercy and truth inquity is purged: and by the fear of the Lord men depart from evil."

Among the Scriptural citations in the Lesson-Sermon were these verses from Hebrews: "Wherefore seeing we also are compassed about with so great a cloud of witnesses, let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience the race that is set before us, . . . Now no chastening for the present seemeth to be joyous, but grievous; nevertheless afterward it yieldeth the peaceable fruit of righteousness unto them which are exercised thereby."

A selection from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy, stated: "He, who knows God's will or the demands of divine Science and obeys them, incurs the hostility of envy; and he who refuses obedience to God, is chastened by Love."

Three Bodies Sought In Monterey Bay

SANTA CRUZ, Calif., Monday, May 6. (AP)—The bodies of three men drowned in the surf here yesterday were sought today in the waters of Monterey bay.

Harold Stewart, 20-year-old life guard at the Santa Cruz beach, lost his life when he attempted to rescue Manuel Soares, 21, of San Jose, when he sank beneath the waves.

H. W. Organ, 70-year-old San Jose orchardist, was swept by a wave from a rocky cliff where he was fishing, and Francis R. Scofield, 40, Santa Cruz garageman, also was drowned when he plunged in a vain effort to save Organ.

Lloyd Holman of Santa Cruz also went to Organ's aid, and was rescued after narrowly losing his life in the pounding surf.

Soares was in a serious condition from submersion when he was finally saved by two San Francisco men, but was revived and taken to a hospital.

Theft of Rare Birds In 1934 Nets Fine

Sixteen rare Dominique game chickens were stolen on December 16, 1934 from H. T. Bock, a rancher near Cypress. Today, Don Buzo, 28, Orange, is in the county jail because members of the farm detail of the sheriff's office discovered Saturday that he was in possession of the stolen birds.

The Dominique game chickens were given to Mr. Bock with the understanding that he would never give away, sell, or in any way put into circulation the rare birds. Mr. Bock kept the agreement in so far as he was able, but Mr. Buzo embarrassed the owner by taking the chickens out of his control.

Mr. Buzo was booked at the county jail on a petty theft charge. Judge H. Kuchel of Anaheim set bail at $500.

REAL FAIRY GARDEN FOUND AT RESIDENCE OF G. N. GRIGSBY

"A garden is a lovesome thing,
God wot!
Rose plot,
Fringed pool,
Fern grot—"

When Thomas Edward Brown wrote the above lines, he must have been thinking of just such a "fairy garden" as that of G. N. Grigsby, 1113 Spurgeon.

A white lattice arch twined with pink and white rose bushes centers the front of Mr. Grigsby's sunken garden in the lot beside the Grigsby home.

Old-fashioned flowers in formal beds line the sides of the lot. Beyond them is a "Hansel and Gretel" house of scrolled redwood timbers with wide windows, designed by Mr. Grigsby. He calls it the "teahouse," but it is his favorite haunt, and Mrs. Grigsby has named it "the smokehouse."

Inside the house, whose walls are topped by a diamond-tiled roof, is a sunken fountain with concealed ruby lighting. Rare ferns border the fountain's pool, and other feathery ferns hang in baskets from the ceiling. Garden furniture is placed among the hothouse plants.

Pansy borders, flagstone paths, a shady row of cineraries, pussywillow, camellias, petunias, coral bells and numerous other flowers enhance without crowding the garden.

Graceful fan-tailed fish swim among water iris and water lilies in a small pool. A miniature cactus garden and a small rose garden are tucked away in corners of the yard.

In conjunction with James Irvine, Mr. Grigsby is raising about 1,000 papaya trees, imported from Mexico. The seeds came from the large ranch near Mexico City which Mr. Grigsby has owned since 1909.

This month, after two years of cultivation, the trees on the Irvine ranch are heavy with ripening melons. Within a short time the crop will be ready for consumption. It is the hope of the two men that methods of making papayas growable in this district will be found through their plantings.

In the glasshouse at his home, Mr. Grigsby has a number of papayas now bearing melons. The papaya melon, he says, has a high pepsin content and is excellent for the digestion. He has also nine pineapple plants which will have pineapples this fall. Some 500 infant papaya plants are growing in flats in the greenhouse.

"People often mistake my garden for a nursery," Mr Grigsby says. "Only yesterday a lady carried a basket into my greenhouse. When I went out to see her she said, 'I'd like two of those and some of these'—and I had to explain I was not in the selling business."

The Grigsbys came to Santa Ana five years ago from the east, and here they have found improved health and contentment.

"Never until a year ago did I take any great interest in gardening," the Santa Anan declares. "Now there is a constant interest in planning for future triumphs, enjoying present blossoms, watching the young plants grow, and working to increase the beauty of my garden."

Claim For Dressler Nursing Services Settled For $3,000

LOS ANGELES, Monday, May 6 (AP)—The $25,000 claim of Claire Du Brey for services she alleged she gave the late Marie Dressler, screen actress, as nurse, secretary and companion, has been settled for $3000, records of the probate court disclosed today. The claim was once rejected by the court on the ground that Miss Du Brey's valuation of her services were exorbitant.

Settlement of the claim, court attaches said, will result in Mrs. Bonita Ganthony of England, sister of the late screen star, receiving at least $25,000 of the $250,000 estate. The $25,000 is the amount left after all claims and bequests had been paid.

Want Ad Heiress

By ROB EDEN

BEGIN HERE TODAY:

FRAN CAREY, stenographer for an insurance firm, is upset to discover that a tall, blond man is following her. She catches a glimpse of him while she is dancing with DAVID LEWIS one night, and her bewilderment increases. A few minutes later a note signed "A Friend" is delivered to her, and she is warned not to wear the old-fashioned cameo locket she has on.

The note puzzles her, for the locket is one she found several months before and kept after no one claimed it from the ad she ran. When rFan gets home, she discovers that her apartment has been ransacked, apparently for the locket since nothing has been taken. Frightened, she deposits the locekt in a safety deposit box.

After that incident, the tall, blond man disappears.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY:

Fran bumped into a man. The impact knocked her purse from her hand, and sent her spinning against the wall. When she got her breath, the man was on his knees picking up the contents of her purse.

CHAPTER V

MacIntire and Jones, insurance brokers, occupied offices on the tenth floor of the Eiler building. The path to their suite lay to the right of the elevators, then around the bend of the corridor and down the hall. Fran knew the route blindfolded, for she had traversed it four times daily, 24 times weekly for more than a year. She even knew with what margin of safety she could run down the corridor, if she were late, as MacIntire and Jones were particular about punctuality.

Bumps Into Man

Friday morning she was a little late, but she wasn't running, she was walking as swiftly as she could, and at the bend in the corridor, where she had never collided with anyone before, she bumped into a man. Not gently, she told Nina afterward, but brutally. The impact knocked her purse from her hand, and sent her spinning against the wall. When she got her breath, the man was on his knees picking up the contents of her purse, for the bag had burst wide open.

"I'm sorry," she murmured, abjectly ashamed of her speed, and stooping to help him.

"My fault entirely. I wasn't looking when I came along. I just didn't want to miss the elevator. Thought I heard it." Into the bag he was stuffing lipstick, compact, coin purse, safety deposit keys, handkerchief, and a half a dozen other things that Fran swore to herself she would discard immediately. "Hope I didn't hurt you," and he looked up anxiously.

"Hope I didn't hurt you." She took the bag from him, and they both rose from their knees.

There wasn't anything more said, for Fran with another apologetic smile went on to her office, which was number 1073, and he, straightening his grey felt hat, went on ahead around the corner and to the elevators. Vaguely while she was taking off her hat and putting it into her locker, she was wnodering who he was.

She had never seen him on the tenth floor of the Eiler building before. In fact, she had never seen him any place before.

He didn't work for MacIntire and Jones—at least he hadn't up to yesterday. Not that MacIntire and Jones were the only tenants on the tenth floor. There were several others, but all big offices, maintaining large suites. Most of the employes on the tenth floor she knew by sight, having made innumerable trips up and down in the elevators with them. All the employes of MacIntire and Jones she knew.

He had seemed so sorry, too, when it hadn't been his fault at all. Hers entirely, because she had no business rushing ahead like a steam engine, not looking where she was going.

In the future, she'd be a little more careful, particularly around the bend of the corridor. What if it had been staid Mr. MacIntire with whom she had collided? She shivered when she thought of that, for Mr. MacIntire had never been known to smile. Or Mr Jones, for that matter?

Mr. Jones was even more formidable than Mr. MacIntire. This brought another shiver, and after that, she promptly forgot her accident in the morning's work.

Fran Is Reminded

But at noon, she was forcibly reminded of it again when she was waiting for the elevator with Martha Pierce, for the man who had picked up the littered contents of her purse was just ringing the bell. He turned around when the two girls came up, and Fran smiled first, shyly, and still apologetically.

His hat came off, and then he smiled. A charming smile. It warmed his whole face, and was still lingering in his eyes when the car came and they got in. Martha and Fran first, and the man last. Fran was standing right behind him in the car, and she saw that he was very tall, nearly a head taller than she.

She saw, too, that his shoulders were broad, and that the back of his suit seemed to be well cut.

She hadn't noticed much about him in the morning in her embarrassment except that he was dark, with dark hair and dark eyes, and on his supper lip was a neat dark mustache.

This morning she couldn't have described him except for those details. Now she knew that he was handsome, a fact which hadn't struck her in the morning; that his skin was tamed and healthy looking, that he was young, certainly not more than 30, if he was that.

That his features were exceptionally regular for a man, and that on his left cheek was a slight scar under his eye. And that she liked his smile. It wasn't a fresh, forward smile. It was a kindly, friendly smile. She decided she wanted to see it again.

However, the man didn't turn around, and at the lobby floor, he got out before she did and was out of the building in a hurry.

"Do you know who that man is?" Fran asked Martha.

"The one you smiled at when we got into the elevator?"

Fran said yes, and Martha shook her head. "Must be some new salesman on the tenth floor Doesn't work for us, though. I know that. I haven't seen him before. Nice looking, wasn't he?"

Fran agreed with her, and then forgot him again, and didn't think about him until the next morning when he was waiting in the lobby for the elevator as she was. Once more they exchanged smiles, but he made no attempt to speak. At the tenth floor they got off together, the only passengers, for Fran was 10 minutes early. Although he was walking behind her, he didn't try to catch up with her, so when she came to 1073, she went in.

A "Live Wire."

Martha came up to her desk later. "Found out who your friend is."

"He's no friend of mine," Fran knew who she meant, though.

"Name's Ward Quentin, and he's taken 1076 across the hall. A real estate broker. Just opened offices Thursday. The building superintendent told me."

"You didn't ask him?"

"Of course. You wanted to know, didn't you?" Martha returned slyly. "Nobody else knew, so I went to old Marley, and he told me right off. Says Mr. Quentin is a live wire."

Fran glanced at 1076 which was a few doors across the corridor from 1073 when she went to lunch. Sure enough, there was a neat, black lettered sign that had not been there the week before. "Ward Quentin, Real Estate. Entrance." Then one door beyond. "Ward Quentin, Real Estate. Private."

Mr. Quentin was not in the elevator going down, but he was waiting for an up car in the lobby, so they saw each other again. Martha nudged Fran as they went by him.

"He smiled again! But not at me, at you!" she crowed.

Fran said nothing, but Mr. Quentin's smile was disturbing. She was flushing slightly when they left the building. The charm of his smile, the flash of his white, even teeth when his mouth opened. Still a kindly, friendly smile.

"Don't be too optimistic," Martha warned, "the good looking ones are always married and have a couple of kids. Always. Never fails. What do you bet your Mr Quentin has a plain, nice wife at home, and a kid he's crazy about? Well, what do you bet?"

Not Interested

"I'm not betting anything. I'm not interesaed in Mr. Quentin." Fran wasn't telling the exact truth. She was interested in Mr Quentin, not much but a little enough to be mildly disturbed, although she didn't know why, when she came on him suddenly and unexpectedly, like today on the lobby floor. His was the first face she had seen when the elevator doors opened. His face and his smile.

But he was a gentleman, she was sure of that. Otherwise he would have spoken long before this. Men were usually waiting for an opportunity to speak, and Mr. Quentin had had plenty of opportunity, and he wasn't speaking. Which proved to Fran conclusively that he was all right—at least, so far.

Saturday afternoon she wandered around alone down town, window shopping mostly, looking behind her every now and then to see if she could see the tall, blond man, and vaguely disappointed because she didn't. She was forced to admit when she took the bus for home and the Sedgewick that he must have stopped following her.

Since last Saturday at the Blossom room, she hadn't caught a glimpse of him. Strange to follow her for two days and then to drop her so suddenly. She couldn't understand it, and supposed she never would. The locket she had forgotten, too, except when she entered the apartment alone. Then it came back to her, and she was afraid.

Enters Alone

Today she had to enter the apartment alone because Nina wasn't coming home, and she did it breathlessly. But everything was the same. No one had come in. Not a thing was touched.

Saturday night passed—another date with David. Sunday went by but Monday morning when Fran was getting off the bus at her usual stop, she had to cross in front of a roadster to get to the sidewalk because the signal was red. A horn blew and she stopped, startled. Mr. Quentin was at the wheel of the dark blue roadster.

"Give you a lift to the office if you'll get in."

A second later, she was sitting in the seat beside him and he was driving the car across the street.

"Happened to notice you," he explained not taking his eyes from the pavement, "hope you don't mind."

"Oh, no—quite all right."

The Eiler building was two blocks from the bus, but there wasn't a word said by the man and the girl during those two blocks. Fran wanted to say something but couldn't think of anything to say. Quentin didn't talk either, and when he parked his car in the garage back of the Eiler building, they walked up together to the lobby, still silent. As they stepped into the elevator, he turned to her. "My name is Quentin. Ward Quentin. I've an office on your floor."

"Mine's Fran Carey—"

So the ice was broken.

Father-Son Banquet Is Local Event

Relating the story of Glenn Martin, "the home town boy who made good in aviation," Ferris Scott of Santa Ana was the featured speaker at the annual father-and-son banquet at the Y. M. C. A. last night.

When Puff nears the ranch, all the Indians disperse.

He's hungry and sore, but it might have been worse.

Then Pancho explains how Puff "broke" a wild steed.

"That's fine!" cries the ranchers. "You're just what we need."

LET'S FINISH THE JOB

FRIENDS of Santa Ana are quite right in calling attention to the unfinished Municipal bowl and the lack of money to make the beautiful Bowers museum usable. Both are institutions of which any city may well be proud.

Santa Ana has done so well by its cultural institutions that neglect of two of its majors seems a pity.

When the editor of The Journal came to Santa Ana for the first time he drove in by way of Main street and he at once was attracted to the beautiful structure at 20th street. He asked what it was and he was told it was a museum.

A few weeks later when the editor's family arrived he began showing them about town. As the car rolled along Main street one of the children caught sight of the stately structure and asked what it was.

"That," said the editor proudly, "is the Bowers museum. It is filled with relics and data descriptive of the early history of Southern California."

The editor didn't know he was drawing the long bow. It was a week or more before he learned the truth—that the museum was only a building. He learned, too, that a very small amount of money would provide the few simple necessities standing between a mere building and the great institution it was intended to be. A few glass cases for exhibits and a small sum to pay a curator—these are all that is required, he was told.

And finishing of the municipal bowl is an undertaking requiring no great cash outlay. What we would spend to develop our young men and women and provide wholesome entertainment is an investment, not an expense. Santa Anans are great lovers of outdoor sports, the decent, character-building kind.

Come on, everybody; let's finish both jobs.

CONSUMER WOULD PAY

PERPETUAL battle of the chains and independents is centered this month in the legislature at Sacramento.

Independent lobbyists are attacking the multiple unit merchants with a bill designed to levy a yearly tax of $500 on every store above 10 in a chain. Their idea, of course, is to hamstring the big operators.

Chain executives reply that the proposed edict would wreck many grocery, gasoline, drug, clothing, automobile, tire, and other organizations; would throw 50,000 employes out of work; would work a difficulty on landlords.

Truth of the matter is that such a tax would simply work a new hardship on the consumer. The chains would merely add the $500 a year to the cost of their merchandise—and the public would pay.

MORE PLACES TO LIVE

ANYBODY who has attempted recently to rent a house in Santa Ana knows that the number of vacant dwellings to choose between is very limited. Furthermore, real estate men report, the desirable places are steadily growing scarcer.

There can be but one answer, of course, sooner or later—and it looks as if it would be made right soon. This is to build more homes. The Journal is quite convinced that a real construction program is beginning to get under way.

We hope it will be a sane and sound one as it develops. We hope it will be carried on from the standpoint and in the interest of the eventual owner and occupant of the house rather than from the standpoint of quick and easy profits for the construction industry.

Santa Ana does not need a lot of poorly designed, jerry-built houses. They do no community much lasting good. What Santa Ana does need is a reasonable number of artistically planned, comfortable houses, some small, some medium sized and some large, but all of them embodying modern conveniences and all of them substantial and meant preeminently to live in.

When such a construction movement gets under way, there is going to be a great increase in general business activity and a great lessening of the unemployment trouble. Santa Ana's situation in regard to housing is not exceptional in fact, most cities are reporting a similar shortage. Los Angeles is experiencing one right now. When replacement work begins all down the line, The Journal predicts, we will hear little more talk about recovery; recovery then will be here.

CONGRATULATIONS, MR. WEST

SUPERVISOR N. E. West is to be congratulated on his position in favor of an Orange county exhibit at the San Diego exposition, as announced Saturday in The Journal.

Mr. West said he would vote for Orange county representation at the fair, provided a plan can be devised that will permit it without increasing the tax levy.

The Journal pointed out that a sum sufficient to pay the cost of an exhibit and a man to care for it could be obtained from the amount already appropriated for advertising Orange county in Los Angeles and Long Beach newspapers. While we do not wish to see our brethren of the press deprived of this bit of "gravy" from Orange county, we do believe the San Diego exhibit would be worth more to the tax payers this year.

The advertising in the Los Angeles and Long Beach papers will reach thousands. In normal times it undoubtedly is good business to use these mediums, invite tourists who visit those cities to come on over to the orange empire and see a real country.

But in this instance there is an opportunity to appeal to an audience of millions. A smart array of Orange county products at a great exposition will whet the appetite of the tourist more effectively than a mere invitation at long range.

Time is passing rapidly. The exposition opens May 29. If we are to be represented, the time to act is now.

Check up another victory for highway safety! The long discussed Newport Beach grade separation project for the Arches intersection is soon to be gotten under way. Some day our grandchildren will marvel at the quaint folly of their forebears who actually tried to operate railroad trains and automobiles across the same square of ground at (not quite) the same time.

Just about every motorist in Southern California is interested in seeing a proper extension of the Roosevelt highway made promptly through Ocean Park and Venice. The existing "Speedway" route is a detriment to all north-and-south coast travel. Here's hoping the legislative committee next week reaches some solution of the controversy now raging between proponents of various plans.

NEW YORK Day by Day
by O. O. McIntyre

O. O. McIntyre

Diary: Awoke in a decision to eat nothing until nightfall, but at 1 p. m. snaffled a few chit-chats from the ice box. And so reading a chapter from that serene philosopher, Abbe Dimnet, a note from Sinclair Lewis and one from Cesare Moneta, the Mulberry street restaurateur.

Squiggling out my essay, with my wife to see a highly bespoke Duncan Phyfe table but could come to no bargain. Then to Carter's and so much noble gesturing felt foolish, having just stepped in to adjust my watch. Thence down the avenue passing the ball tosser Lefty Gomez. And Rebecca West.

Dinner at Versailles with the Ryley Coopers, they to a broadcast and we to a first night, but so tedious we finished off with news reels. And walked a few blocks with Anne and Henry Sell and home to find a telegram to dine most informally with the President and his lady at the White House.

Ely Culbertson won his most recent bridge match on the day he was elected New York's No. 1 Bore by readers in an evening paper contest. He has a complex manner that makes the public that comes in contact with him blow hot and cold. Sometimes he seems warm, pliable and airily irresponsible. Other times he is cold and rigid with a dour distrust for everything. Thus — friends and enemies.

Joe Schenck, of the movies, appears to have more fun in his relaxing hours than almost any heavy burdened executive of middle years. There's scarcely a night he does not don white tie and tails, either in New York os Los Angeles to make merry. He is accomplished at the rhumba and no slouch at the tango. No matter how hard he plays the night before, he is at his desk early. Often he's the odd number of a threesome that includes his ex-wife Norma Talmadge and George Jessel. Modernity at its pinnacle.

Personal nomination for the supremest indifference to off-side jeers — that of George Jean Nathan.

Nathan's mind seems only to rotate venomously in his salty critiques. Out of his critical role, he is a personable fellow, often quite mellow, to those who know him well although his contacts are few. He travels mostly alone with a silk-stockinged attitude toward things in general. The sole warm friendships he has cultivated among theatrical folk are for Eugene O'Neill and Lillian Gish. For the rest he strikes observers as having a slight contempt. Nathan is a replica of the English toff who tops an evening of billiards at a conservative club with a solitary Scotch and soda. Sometimes he generates faint suspicion he is himself quite an actor in his own right. With the smallest circulation of any critic, he is most feared.

No soothsayer has ever captured the imagination of Harlem in the manner of Father Devine, a little black healer who is glitteringly accoutered with a whopping diamond ring and a robin's egg blue Rolls. He claims to "materialize" money out of thin air when needed — just reaches into his pocket and it's there! He feeds hundreds daily — chitlins, corn pone and pot-likker, yum, yum!—in a spacious red brick sanctuary he has built for his cult.

I like the taunt of John Chapman for the good old days sigher that the current cock-eyed conniptions have not produced anything so brassy and comic as Diamond Jim Brady.

Bagatelles: Lowell Thomas has put by a half million annuity out of public speaking . . . Billy Seeman has a miniature grocery store in his penthouse . . . Oliver Herford is regarded in England as America's foremost wit . . . Phil Baker never took an accordion lesson . . . If a mosquito bites Bide Dudley he looks like the circus fat boy for 48 hours . . . Lady Astor cannot pass a shooting gallery . . . Manuel Queson and Roy Howard have been first nighting together . . . Charles M. Schwab always arises a 7 a. m. . . . Jack Norworth, a 135 pounder, has joined the heavyweights.

Lisle Bell just barged in, hunkered over like the fellow in the kidney pill ad. He had been enticed into a bowling game and with the fling of the first ball discovered he could not straighten up. An hour later he was still that way. As he went out I thought of Cobb's story of the sod buster who wired for a job on McGraw's Giants. He was asked what position he played. He wired back: "Any of the stooping positions."

What Other Editors Think

FREIGHT CAR BILL
(South Coast News)

Resisting the pressure exerted by a powerful minority, Governor Merriam vetoed the bill limiting freight trains to 70 cars, and this action is coming in for general commendation. We agree in the belief that his decision was for the good of California as a whole. His veto was for excellent reasons, after an independent investigation.

This measure, forced through the legislature by a group seeking special favor, was intended to promote safety in train handling, according to its sponsors. However, instead of providing safeguards for employes, it is asserted, the bill would have served only to increase the cost of rail operations at the expense of shippers of California products, and, more than all, would have increased the number of trains required to carry commerce of the state to a point where grade crossing hazards and nuisances, as well as possibilities of collision, would have been greatly increased.

While organized labor is sometimes in the wrong, just as corporations are sometimes in the wrong, legislators are prone to favor the former rather than the latter, because the former represents a very large number of votes. Men in public office should decide against either labor or capital when it is wrong, but too many of them think in terms of votes rather than in terms of right and wrong. That is why the governor's action in this instance is especially commendable.

WELCOME, SANTA ANA JOURNAL
(Tustin News)

The News welcomes with genuine fraternal appreciation the advent of the Santa Ana Daily Journal into the newspaper field of Orange county and bespeaks for its a long, useful and successful career.

That another daily newspaper has been desired at the county seat for several years has been apparent to the most casual observer, not for the purpose of grinding any particular axe or satisfying the personal spleen of any particular person or faction (that field is already occupied) but for the purpose of giving the important happenings of the city, county and nation, as they affect the lives and business interests of the county's most important municipality.

With trained and experienced newspaper men in every department, with ample financial resources, and with a genuine desire to be of service to the entire community, The Journal should rapidly forge to the front in the daily field of the Southland, and here's hoping.

Let's see if we have it straight. A woman named Mae West married a man named Frank Wallace in Milwaukee, Omaha, Chicago, Detroit, Dallas, New York and Boston. But it wasn't Mae West, just another woman by that name. And there were at least a couple of Frank Wallaces.

Feeling Well Today?

Dr. Claud North Chrisman

The person who has become the victim of the morphine habit is surely a pitiable object. He loses flesh, his memory fails, he is alternately happy or depressed and miserable. He cannot sleep when he is deprived of the drug, his nerves are jumpy and he suffers pain over his entire body. His entire existence is bound up in the desire for more and more of the bug that bit him in the vain hope that he will escape his misery.

He cannot work and he will go to any extreme to obtain the drug. His will power is deadened and though he always contends that he can stop its use, it is invariably put off till the next time.

Codeine is not so habit-forming, and very few become addicts to it. Cocaine is another drug that fastens itself on the habitual user. Many become addicts who have used it to relieve the distress and misery of the morphine habit or to overcome the effects of over-indulgence in alcohol.

The action of cocaine is directly opposite to that of morphine and heroin, as it is not a narcotic, but a stimulant which relieves exhaustion and depression. It is used very much in ointments and sprays for the relief of catarrh and sinusitis; and the habit may be acquired in that way, but generally, like heroin, it is deliberately taken by criminals and denizens of the underworld for its stimulating and grandiose effect. When taken with other drugs it produces the worst effects of both drugs.

The later effects are insomnia, muscular weakness, jerky movements of the arms, legs, and face muscles, while the mind turns to a feeling of persecution. Sufferers are beset with hallucinations of sight and hearing. They hear strange noises and conversations, and see things that are not there. This leads them to arm themselves for defense against these imaginary enemies and they become very dangerous.

They grow suspicious and morose and suffer from anxiety and dread. They lose flesh, and get restless, excitable, weak mentally and physically. One of the most depressing sensations of these sufferers is the feeling of something crawling under the skin and they dig and scratch and often cause severe sores and infections of the skin.

Another plant has just lately come into prominence in the United States, as a habit-forming drug. Like many other things, the last is the worst. It is known under many names, and has been an ingredient in some medical preparations for chronic headaches and many nervous disorders under the plant name of Canuabis Indica or Indian Hemp.

It grows to a height of three or four feet and the leaves and blossoms are gathered and used in the form of cigarettes. In the south and west where there is a large Spanish-American population, it is packed in tins like tobacco. It sells for three to five dollars, and is called "hay," one tin being sufficient to make 30 or 40 cigarettes.

LIKES NEWS INDEX

Editor, The Journal:

As a hurried business man, I wish to express my thanks to your organization for the news index which appeared in Saturday night's edition of The Journal.

I have often wondered why more publishers have not introduced this splendid feature in their papers. I have subscribed to a certain metropolitan daily for the past ten years largely because its publishers have made it their job to classify their news items clearly.

Here's my whole-hearted support to your new undertaking, and wishing you every success. Cordially yours, privately that he favors an import quota on pulp and paper from abroad . . . Hurrying to the floor in response to the signal for a roll call, Andy May, Democratic Kentucky congressman, passed a page boy, who was announcing the subject of the vote to scurrying members. May interrupted, "How are the Democrats voting?" "Voting 'Aye,' sir," the page replied. That was all May wanted to know . . . The buzz of conversation in the house died down to a silence one day recently, caused not by the importuning gavel of Speaker Byrns, but by the appearance at the rostrum of Republican Harold Knutson of Minnesota. Knutson, large and rotund, seasons his remarks abundantly with witticisms, and the house likes to be amused . . . Commenting on Admiral Richard E. Byrd, the aircraft designer Grover Loening says: "His real talent, as I intimately saw him, was that of a promoter. He has the showman's instinct, a real publicity sense." Loening is author of the new book, "Our Wings Grow Faster" . . . To the swarms of high-school children who came daily to the capitol this spring, the historical objects of greatest interest are the rotunda's two representations of Lincoln. One is the massive head done by Gutzon Borglum, the other the full statue done by Vinnie Ream when she was 18 years old . . . The living object of greatest interest to them is Huey Long. Failing to see him, they ask guides to point out his desk in the senate chamber.

MERRITT WHITE.

THE President is not going to allow any grass to grow under his feet in getting his re-election campaign off to an early start. He is considering some personal fence-mending this summer and autumn in the form of a series of speeches in strategic sections of the country. The mid-west and Pacific coast are certain to see him. The President's talks probably will not be of an outright political nature, but their underlying purpose will be to lay the groundwork for the 1936 campaign . . . Roger Babson's latest ballyhooed scheme of giving senators life tenure of office made no hit with Indiana's hard-working Senator Frederick Van Nuys. Said he: "This is just another damn fool suggestion, which added to the great multitude of other damn fool suggestions, makes just a little more nonsense." . . . The senate munitions investigation has proved a windfall to one individual. James West, press agent for the Republican national committee during he Hoover regime, is employed by a number of ship builders and munitions makers to act as their observer during the probe.

SKINNY SKRIBBLES

Around and About Town

With C. F. (Skinny) SKIRVIN

Dick Bird (please do not confuse with Little America) took a fling at the barracuda that inhabit the Dana Point area, and believe it or not, with amazing results, Dick fished from his express cruiser, which was a farcry from the old brig "Pilgrim," in those waters a hundred years ago. It was R. H. Dana, an undergraduate of Cambridge, who set out from Boston to make the trip around the Horn, and gathered from the forecastle enough material for that memorable book "Two Years Before the Mast." If that ugly old depression had not come along I surmise that my friend S. H. Woodruff and his Los Angeles associates would be celebrating the event for the Dana Point subdivision. And San Diego could commemorate most appropriately as it was on Friday, May 8, 1835, that Dana was in that city. Now let me see, the Scripps' have been in the newspaper business for 200 years, and San Diego is a stronghold. Which naturally provokes the Baron Munchausen inquiry: "Were you there, John?"

On one of my infrequent appearances for the morning worship the good dominie urged the parishioners to spread the gospel over all the world. It was an appealing missionary sermon, for the purpose of supporting a representative in the foreign field. When the collection plate passed my pew there wasn't enough money in it to get a missionary outside the city limits, and I was in the omega row.

I won't give you his name but if my grocer ever sells me another bottle of sweet cider without first lifting the patent lid I will compromise and give you the name of his undertaker. If there is anything that disturbes, perplexes, aggravates, irritates and devastates my ordinarily tranquil disposition its one of those obstinate caps which refuses to yield to just plain, respectable persuasion. I understand they come off sometimes by using right hand English and left hand profanity. Many a good soul has been lost just on account of an obstinate cap. Why, those grocers could save more souls than an evangelist if they only knew it.

How come! One man lives to be more than a hundred years old, and attributes his long life to sobriety and non-use of nicotine. Another goes the same length and says he always smoked and imbibed. There is a dietictical discrepancy here, but why bother about incongruities when you can go over a hundred.

Hollywood divorces are occurring with such rapidity that it will soon be appropriate to introduce the morning salutation with: "How DO you do, what's the name of your husband for today." Recently the cleansing solvent of public opinion was applied to the moving picture business with beneficial results to the industry which opposed it. Producers finally found out that it wasn't necessary to drag an audience through a sewer to win public approval. When the American home fails in its domestic fidelity and filial obligations, it will be too late to experiment with Sovietism.

Not a bedtime story, but an old one:

Time: High noon. Place: Santa Ana. Characters: Elmer Curtis, Wilbur Wasser, Volney Tubbs. Curtis feels the impress of the noon gnaw. Invests in a loaf of bread and pushes the old pedestals toward South Main domicile. Appears one Wasser who asks Curtis if he wanted a ride. The invitation mets with ready acceptance but lo and behold, Wasser heads for Tustin. Progress prevented by freight train blocking East First street. The protesting Curtis starts to walk back when another friend appears who offers relief to the involuntary hitch-hiker. Tubbs, the good Samaritan — maybe — starts with Curtis, but neglects to stop until he reached Garden Grove. That loaf of bread beginning to go stale, Elmer hears the welcome sound of the Pacific Electric and takes an interurban ride home, arriving in time to turn in an unsatisfactory explanation. Moral: Beware of Greeks bearing gifts.
